

Electronic Flip Book

Taking your print piece online as a pdf is effective in increasing marketing reach. However, taking your print online as an interactive, “flippable” version can significantly enhance your marketing efforts. Not only does it feel more real, with pages that open like the printed piece, but each viewer can be tracked for measurement of what users found to be interesting within the piece.

At Universal Wilde we can distribute print documents electronically in the form of a Flip Book. These e-documents can be interactive with links to pages or to websites. Video and audio can be added too. We offer reports showing where the reader clicks or zooms, providing critical feedback on what content is drawing interest.

The final print document is repurposed as a RGB PDF and run through software to generate the Flipbook. The optional links are added as specified by the customer. Our email tool can be used to distribute the file. The Flip Book is hosted for one year so users can return to it as needed and we can password protect it if you want to limit access.

Providing feedback for marketing professionals is a growing necessity. Reporting on customers’ preferences helps with future sales and marketing. Flipbooks are superior to PDFs, preserving the design by displaying publications in two-page spreads, just like the printed version, and allowing users to link to other customer content. It’s also cool to flip through the piece online, just like the paper version.